Dr. Gopal Reddy has worked for 40 years in the field of Vascular Medicine. He values health and education, which is why his patients love him and his son followed him into medicine.

 Dr. Gopal Reddy's son Dr. Suraj Reddy says:

DEDICATION. This one word epitomizes my father. It describes his commitment to all the patients he has seen in over 40 years of practicing in New Mexico. It describes his determination and support for his children and grandchildren to ensure their success and well-being through all of life's challenges. It describes his strength and perseverance as a human being in all of his endeavors.

I see patients every day who tell me stories how my father saved their lives; how he sat with their family members to offer comfort during very stressful and grave situations. He has taken calls day and night and has gone out of his way to help patients and fellow physicians. Trust me I know! The sound of his beeper chirping in the middle of the night is ingrained in my memories. His patients don't use the word "like" to describe him. They LOVE my father.

He has achieved so much from so little. He was brought up with parents who were largely illiterate but valued education and instilled a virtue of hard work. He had little financial support through his journey coming from a foreign country. He has worked extremely hard to provide a great life for his family. My sister and I have had all the opportunities we can imagine and we will forever be grateful to him as a father.

I remember countless soccer and basketball games, tennis matches, and school activities in which he showed up in his hospital scrubs after finishing a long surgery. He wanted to be there to cheer on his children. He now does the same with his four grandchildren, rarely missing any of their events. He is the most patient, kind-hearted, and understanding human being I know. His family and patients have seen these qualities first hand.

Colleagues and fellow physicians have often told me that if I'm half the doctor my father is, I will change many lives and help a lot of patients.
